North Pacific Region

We in the North Pacific Region are a personally, culturally, and geographically diverse people. We are well known for our beautiful outdoors—from seas to snow-covered mountains. The region includes four U.S. States—Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Montana—and Southwestern Canada.

Over the past six years, we have attempted to form with “starts” and “pauses.” We are now a loosely formed group of approximately 30 Certified Imago Therapists, including six workshop presenters.

Acting more as individual pockets of the region (as highly independent people from the North Pacific often do), Vancouver, the Seattle area, and the Three Rivers Center in Bend, Oregon, have each sponsored Imago trainings on their own over the years. As a region, one of our current goals is to combine our efforts and resources to offer our wildly successful advanced trainings with greater frequency.

Another very important goal is to create enthusiasm among the Imago therapists in our own geographically challenged area. To that end, we are planning a regional gathering Sept. 19-21, 2003, in Olympia, Washington, with Helen and Harville, Maya Kollman, and many of our own brilliant and loving local members.

If you are interested, please come and join us!!! All are welcome!
